- a goal you have set to achieve;
- how you plan to achieve it;
- how you will feel once you achieve it.

Write about 100 words.

PART III: READING SKILLS

(30 MARKS)

Read the passage below and answer ALL the questions that follow.

Failure won't kill you but your fear to fail just may keep you from success

Success is good but failure is better. You must not let successes get to your head but also must not let failure consume your heart. Know that, sometimes things don't go as planned and that is perfectly fine.

For many young people, it's easy to simply give up when things don't work out. But if there is one thing you shouldn't do, it is just that: DO NOT give up because the reality is you're going to fail a lot.

Failure doesn't mean your dream isn't good enough. Failure simply means there is something to be learned or another direction to be taken. Here's why failure is GOOD:

1. Failure is a redirection. It shows you where you shouldn't be.
2. Failure is an opportunity. It's a chance to re-evaluate and come back stronger with better reasoning.
3. Failure is hard, but it means that you can get another shot to try it all again.

Having failed a lot, there is one thing I've learned: Failure makes your next shot quicker, easier and surer. Take the failures you will face with grace because you'll learn more in a single failure than in a lifetime of success. From all our faults we learn lessons, which take us to our ultimate vision. Get the idea going and trust the process.

This process is known as the cultivation process: Start by writing your thoughts and ideas. Talk them out with friends, and do one thing a day that will help your overall vision. It won't be perfect, but the more you insist on achieving your goal and reaching your vision, the easier it will be to deal with failures along the way.

Each failure is simply feedback of how to perfect your skills. Know that nothing works unless you know that what you envisioned will not happen exactly how you thought it would. However that is what makes the distance between where we are and where we want to go so exciting.

This fearful, grey, undefined space makes life the crazy beautiful awesome journey it is. So fail and fail often. Failure won't kill you but your fear to fail just may keep you from success.

Delayed gratification

It feels great to have something you want right 1. (on / at / for) this moment. Life is short, right? But some things 2. (which / who / whose) make you feel good in the present come at the cost of what you truly want in life.

For example, if you delay the gratification of watching TV and get your homework done now, then you 3. (would / will / could) learn more and get better grades.

If you want to succeed at something, at some point you will need to develop the 4. (ability / courage / fear) to be disciplined and take action instead 5. (over / above / of) doing what is easy. This is the meaning of delayed gratification.

The Marshmallow 6. (experience / experiment / expertise) teaches us to delay gratification. Delayed gratification is the ability a person has to 7. (refuse / take / win) a reward now and be patient enough to wait for a bigger reward later. In the Marshmallow study, the children who did not eat the marshmallow immediately and got a second one were indeed the children who 8. (played / acted / did) better at school. They had better relationships with their teachers, parents and friends and showed a greater ability to deal 9. (with / over / at) stress proving that they were more successful than the children who were 10. (impatient / impolite / impossible) to eat the marshmallow immediately.

Tom Whittaker

Tom Whittaker was born in the UK, but he later moved to the USA, where he settled down. He was an 1. ____ (ADVENTURE) type of person by nature and loved climbing 2. ____ (MOUNTAIN) areas. However, on Thanksgiving 1979, he lost his leg in an accident which changed his life forever.

He eventually got his 3. ____ (STRONG) back and continued mountain climbing. He went one step further, and he founded the Cooperative Wilderness Handicapped Outdoor Group because he felt that he had the 4. ____ (RESPONSIBLE) to show the world that 5. ____ (ABILITY) must not stop people from enjoying their life.

Several years later, he attempted to climb Mount Everest. Unfortunately, his first two attempts were 6. ____ (SUCCESSFUL). He even considered giving up 7. ____ (COMPLETE). In 1998, however, he entered history as the first disabled person ever to climb the mountain.

Today, Whittaker spends his time trying to raise people's 8. ____ (AWARE) about the importance of fulfilling our dreams. He spends his time helping organisations for disabled people and giving 9. ____ (PRESENT) to motivate people into improving their lives.

He wants to be the first person to climb the 10. ____ (HIGH) mountains on all the continents.
